AN UPDATE ON THE APPEAL FOR DONATIONS EARTHQUAKE TURKEY - SYRIA

Dear supporters of those affected by the earthquake in Turkey and Syria,
I would like to thank very much all those who have donated! And many others who have not yet had the chance to do so, please donate. Currently (March 8), there are over 14,700 euros.

UNICEF Regional Director for Europe and Central Asia, Afshan Khan:

"The children have seen their whole world collapse before their eyes.... Giving children the tools they need - psychosocial support, opportunities to play and learn, and the stability that comes from knowing their basic needs are being met - is immeasurably important to ensuring their long-term well-being."

When and how will the money be used?

Between April 6-15, I will be in the earthquake zone. After spending the first 2-3 days with a small team getting an overview, we will begin to look for CHILDREN who have lost everything and provide them with everything they need. Expenses, flight, and hotel costs on site will be covered by us, so that 100% of your donation will reach the children.

Thank you for your support! Please forward this appeal for donations to your relatives, friends and networks so that as many affected children as possible can be helped.

It is about solidarity in the hour of need.
